SHEPHERD IS DECLARED NOT GUILTY BY JURY

ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF MURDER

PANDEMONIUM REIGNED IN THE COURT ROOM AS VERDICT IS READ

SHEPHERD WALKED TO JURY BOX AND THANKED EACH MAN

(By United Press)
Chicago, June 27.—The boundaries of the state of Illinois were the only barriers between William Darling Shepherd and absolute freedom, and they may soon be lifted.

Acquitted by a jury late last night of charges that he murdered his millionaire ward, Billy McClintock, Shepherd returned to the palatial suburban residence that was Billy's and for the first time in more than three months rested his massive head on something softer than a prison cot.

By the permission of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, Shepherd signed his own bonds for $5,000 immediately after the verdict was returned and was allowed full liberty so long as he remains in Illinois. If Crowe decides to drop further action against Shepherd on the charge that he murdered Billy's mother, Emma Nelson McClintock, 16 years ago, Shepherd will then be totally free. This, the state's attorney indicated he will do.

Pandemonium broke loose in the little court room when the verdict was returned shortly after ten P. M. More than 200 persons, many of them women, had kept constant vigil for 5½ hours while the jury was deliberating, anxious to be there for the big climax of the trial. The jury which was sent to deliberate late in the afternoon came into court and handed the verdict to the judge. He opened it and read:

"We, the jury, find the defendant, William Darling Shepherd, not guilty."

The last word was drowned in the storm of shouts that issued from the throng. There were cheers and there were hisses—there were 200 people fighting their way to better positions and above it all came the bomb, bomb, bomb of a score of newspaper cameras, the flashlights sending a pall of dense smoke over the scene.

But Shepherd did not see the first outbreak. As the clerk finished reading the verdict, his head dropped and he murmured a prayer of thanks. Then he walked to the jury box, took the hand of each of the 12 men and thanked them.

By that time his friends were upon him, wringing his hand and slapping his massive shoulders. After twenty minutes the court room was cleared and Shepherd walked out to meet his wife who had remained away from court in order to avoid a possible collapse.

But Shepherd had one more battle ahead of him. He must fight to sustain the will Billy made bequeathing the bulk of the McClintock estate to him. Several distant cousins of Billy have served notice they will try to break the will and prevent Shepherd from being also sole beneficiary.

FRESH VICTORY FOR SHEPHERD

Chicago, June 27.—Fresh victory came to William Darling Shepherd today when State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe announced that no action would be taken on the charge that Shepherd murdered Billy McClintock's mother 16 years ago.

Crowe also announced he would not prosecute Dr. C. C. Faiman, the dapper, young University president, who testified that he gave Shepherd three tubes of typhoid germs for the purpose of murdering young McClintock.

BOOTLEGGERS TO FACE HEAVIER PENALTIES

IF FOUND GUILTY AFTER ENTERING NOT GUILTY PLEAS

PLAN ADOPTED BY JUDGE MORRIS REVIVED BY JUDGE SANBORN

(By United Press)
Minneapolis, June 27.—Bootleggers of Minnesota will again be confronted with the practice instituted by the late Federal Judge Page Morris of receiving heavier penalties if found guilty after entering not guilty pleas.

The plan adopted by Judge Morris is being revived by Federal Judge J. B. Sanborn.

It is the contention of the judges that liquor law violators knowing they are guilty slow up the court procedure by entering not guilty pleas when they have no hope of winning an acquittal verdict. The cost of carrying on the trial and the amount of time lost will be included in the heavier sentences meted out, Judge Sanborn announced today.

Instead of the customary ninety day sentences for illegal sale of liquor, four months' sentence will be imposed, Judge Sanborn says.

G. N. NET INCOME GAINS $800,000

INCREASE OF 15 PER CENT OVER 1924 IS ESTIMATED BY BUDD

St. Paul, June 27.—An increase of more than $800,000 in the net railway operating income of the Great Northern for the first six months of 1925 was estimated by Ralph Budd, president, today.

This is equivalent to a gain of about 15 per cent compared with the corresponding figures of 1924, he said.

The increase in net income will be made despite a comparatively slight gain in the gross revenues, Mr. Budd said. This largely is due to economies achieved by the betterment of equipment, sidetrack facilities and general economies of operation.

The largest item of expense reduction was in transportation.

This estimate was made by Mr. Budd although figures for May and June are not yet available.

The Northern Pacific is expected to show similar increases, Charles Donnelly, president, saying that the May figures will be materially higher than last year.

This increase in net revenue and the belief in financial circles that the interstate commerce commission will grant certain rate increases has had a tendency to boost the stock of all northwest railroads.

With apparent assurance that the present dividend rates will be maintained the stock market has become more active.

An elaborate scenario now is being prepared by labor editors. It will endeavor to contrast as fully as possible conditions of workmen in industries which are unionized and those nonunionized. Furthermore, it will picture the gradual improvement in living conditions of workmen since the federation became a power in American history. The movies will detail what has been done and will picture what may be done.

(By United Press)
St. Paul, June 27.—Federal agents yesterday arrested Sam Terrin, the "fighting tailor," and confiscated a complete distilling plant valued at more than $5,000 in one of the largest raids staged in the northwest this year. Terrin, a former pugilist, had been arrested on an old warrant when the agents entered his home.

The distilling plant enabled Terrin to convert body rub alcohol into Scotch whiskey, agents said. The raid netted four 175-gallon stills, 550 gallons of re-distilled alcohol, 50 gallons of "Old Parr" and "White Horse Cellar" whiskey and several machines used in the process.

LICENSES

(By United Press)
St. Paul, June 27.—More than $2,000,000 of additional funds will be available for 1925 highway improvements through savings effected by Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner. The savings were realized by low contract awards and increased fees for motor vehicle licenses.

CANNOT PUBLISH
NAMES OF WOMEN

Madison, Wis., June 26.—The new Wisconsin law prohibiting the publication of the name of women or girls who are victims of criminal assaults was given wide application by an opinion of the attorney general today.

The identity of a woman or girl who may have been criminally assaulted cannot be disclosed in any newspaper or other publication, J.
F. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, wrote to George A. Bowman, special assistant district attorney at Milwaukee. The Hoover case in Milwaukee and a recent case in Racine county where a girl, assaulted by her stepfather, committed suicide, comes under the new law, the opinion states.

Under a broad interpretation of the law, Mr. Messerschmidt said unofficially, it is doubtful whether any reference could be made in a newspaper account of a criminal assault case, even in the trial, which would disclose the identity of the woman.

Travelers' Checks have been called "away-from-

They are easy for the owner to cash but valueless to others. Checks of this bank at home; Travel-

BOY MOVIE OPERATORS ARE RIVALS AT WAR

ERNEST GANN FILMING SUPER
PICTURE "SWEET SIX-TEEN"

GEORGE GERE MUST FINISH "THE PERFECT SHEIK" IN
BRAINERD

The two youngest motion picture companies in the world raced neck and neck down the last long stretch of film, in the Twin Cities last night, to settle the momentous question of whether "Sweet Sixteen" or "The Perfect Sheik" shall be first to dazzle the screens of all the world.

And two 14-year-old film magnates, two sets of heroes, heroines and villains, two cameramen, two scenarioists and a crowd of extras, supers and property men—not one of them more than 15 years old—fought out their own battle of the century, with success for one and failure for the other in the balance.

For the first time in 20 years, actual film dramas, having nothing to do with industrial exploitation or educational efforts, concentrating on providing the theatregoing public with thrills, tears, humor and sentiment, are being made in, around and about Minneapolis and St. Paul.

And Ernest Gann, University high school boy, is willing to bet all the stock he owns in the company of which he is president, principal owner, director and man of all work, that he'll beat his former cameraman to the world film market with "the biggest super-special ever made in Minnesota."

And last night Ernest went home from the office he works in every day and so did two other pioneers in the Real Film Company—and counted up their profits, and wondered how much longer it will take to raise the great sum of $40, needed to defray expenses of printing the super-picture, "Sweet Sixteen," and bringing it to the screen.

It's a finished product, except for printing. So Ernest and the two other pioneers are at work, one in a railway advertising department, one as a way bill sorter, another in a canning factory—earning their $40. And when they're through, they'll have no jobs, but they will have a real picture.

Employee Becomes Competitor
But here's the rub.

George Gere, originally, was cameraman for the infant Real Film Company. But—well, differences will develop, even in the best regulated corporations. All at once, George no longer was with the company. All at once, he had a company of his own, and this time he was not only cameraman but also owner, author, director, producer and hero.

So last night George's film master piece, "The Perfect Sheik," neared completion.

And, said Ernest, "we'll beat George yet."

But, said George, "I bet my picture is finished first. I'll show that guy."

And there you are.
If Ernest must earn $40, to finish his picture, George must go to Brainerd, to finish his. Exigencies of the plot he wrote demand it. He must take some of his company along, too, in about two weeks—just as Gloria Swanson took American actors to France to make "Madame Sans Gene," says George—but will recruit some of his cast from Brainerd talent.

Ernest is director and president of the company, Robert De Vinney, University high school, one of the other moving spirits in the production, is art director, author of the scenario and hero of the picture. Otto Mueller, Central high school, St. Paul, is cinematographer (which means he does the "shooting" of the scenes).

All Work Done by Boys
All photographing, directing, writing, acting and financing of the picture was done by the boys, with Ernest starting them off. And when the picture is printed, it's to be produced at Twin City theaters.

There's a stock company, with shares $1 a throw. There now are 14 shareholders, and the capital stock has reached the grand total of $50.

And if one canning factory and two railroads are good enough to pay three artistic employees $40 in a hurry, "Sweet Sixteen's" fame will be made. And there'll be one more candidate for the ranks of De Mille and Griffith.

If only George Gere doesn't get there first.—Minneapolis Journal.

His Business Proposition

By W. C. SHERLOCK

WNU Service

GENTLEMEN, I am thirty thousand dollars short in my accounts as trustee!

Howard Marriott, president in the legal profession, director of several banks and trustee of the estates of many widows and orphans, spoke calmly and deliberately.

The three gentlemen, each president of a large life insurance company, sitting on the opposite side of the long desk, stared at each other in blank amazement at Marriott's confession—then fixed their eyes upon the speaker.

"Gentlemen," continued Marriott, drawing three life insurance policies from his pocket, "as I said, I am thirty thousand dollars short in my accounts as trustee of various estates. There is no possible way by which I can repay this money unless you agree to my proposition."

"You're a cool hand, Marriott, I must confess," remarked Mr. Walker, half-admiringly. "Most men would either cut and run or commit suicide if they were in your fix."

"My proposition is this," continued Marriott, apparently not heeding the interruption: "I hold here, three incontestable policies on my life. Each is for twenty thousand dollars. The premiums that have been paid do not make a very large sum and the cash surrender values of these policies would not pay the shortage of which I have spoken."

"Then why have you sent for us?" demanded Mr. Washburne, impatiently. "Your affairs are no concern of ours."

"I have sent for you to offer to turn these policies over to you," replied Marriott calmly, "upon the payment to me of ten thousand dollars for each. That will enable me to make good to those who have been defrauded through me."

"Impossible! You must be crazy!" chorused the three presidents, rising, as if to terminate the interview.

"My proposition will save you, or rather your companies, ten thousand dollars apiece," continued Marriott, drawing a little bottle from his vest pocket and holding it so that it could be plainly seen. "Two or three drops of this liquid will end my life in as many minutes and your companies will be called upon to pay my executors twenty thousand dollars apiece. That will amount to sixty thousand dollars and will repay the shortage to those who have been wronged through me; the remainder, as I have no heirs, I have directed to be paid over to several charitable institutions. It is for you to decide, gentlemen. Will you pay the ten or the twenty thousand apiece?"

The presidents drew their chairs close together in whispered consultation.

"The thing is impossible," remarked Mr. Walker, irritably. "Marriott is a fool to expect us to do such a thing."

"It would be a precedent for every rogue in the country to extort money from insurance companies," interposed Mr. Shelton, with conviction. "I, for one, am opposed to any such compromise."

"Better be careful," advised Mr. Washburne, cautiously. "I fully believe Marriott means what he says and I, for one, don't care to witness a suicide."

"I shall give you five minutes to discuss the question, gentlemen," called Marriott, laying his open watch upon the desk. "Then I shall decide for you."

The whispered consultation continued, and at last Mr. Washburne, as spokesman for the three, turned to Marriott.

"Why did you take that money? he asked, earnestly. "You have always been considered honest and above suspicion, enjoying the confidence of every one."

"The money was taken from me by some one whom I will not name," replied Marriott, wearily. "I placed confidence in one person, who has repaid me by robbing me, not only of all I had but of that which was entrusted to my care. That is all I can say."

"We may do as you wish," continued Mr. Washburne, more pitily than sternly, "if you will consent to two conditions. The first is that you will never tell anyone that we have bought your policies for such a sum, so far in excess of their value."

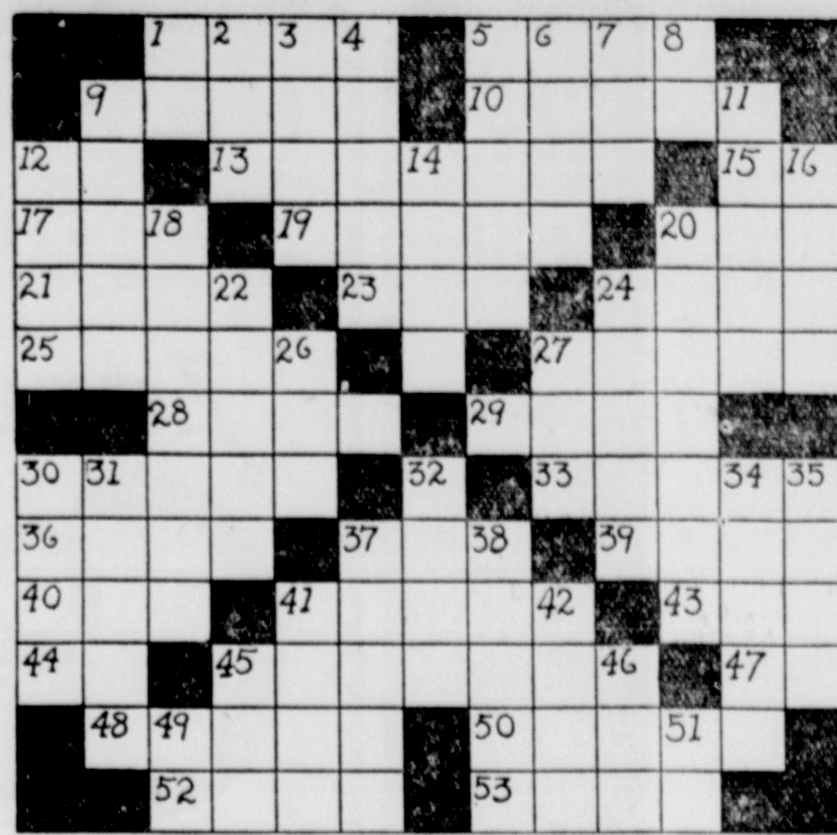

"I promise that," replied Marriott, "if you, upon your part, agree not to reveal my defalcation to any one."

"We will keep your secret inviolate," affirmed Mr. Washburne. "The second condition is that you turn over all trust moneys to some one to be appointed by the court. If you agree to that, we will accept your proposition, although we will have to request that we be permitted to oversee the transfer of the trust funds."

"It was my purpose," responded Marriott in the same listless tone, "in the event of your acceptance of my proposition, to turn over my trust funds, never, under any circumstances, be responsible for a dollar of another person's money. If that is all, gentlemen, just sign these agreements to pay ten thousand dollars each when the court appoints a new trustee, and then accompany me to the courthouse to file my petition for release from my trusteeships."

BOY MOVIE OPERATORS ARE RIVALS AT WAR

PICTURE "SWEET SIX-TEEN"

GEORGE GERE MUST FINISH "THE PERFECT SHEIK" IN
BRAINERD

The two youngest motion picture companies in the world raced neck and neck down the last long stretch of film, in the Twin Cities last night, to settle the momentous question of whether "Sweet Sixteen" or "The Perfect Sheik" shall be first to dazzle the screens of all the world.

And two 14-year-old film magnates, two sets of heroes, heroines and villains, two cameramen, two scenarioists and a crowd of extras, supers and property men—not one of them more than 15 years old—fought out their own battle of the century, with success for one and failure for the other in the balance.

For the first time in 20 years, actual film dramas, having nothing to do with industrial exploitation or educational efforts, concentrating on providing the theatregoing public with thrills, tears, humor and sentiment, are being made in, around and about Minneapolis and St. Paul.

And Ernest Gann, University high school boy, is willing to bet all the stock he owns in the company of which he is president, principal owner, director and man of all work, that he'll beat his former cameraman to the world film market with "the biggest super-special ever made in Minnesota."

And last night Ernest went home from the office he works in every day and so did two other pioneers in the Real Film Company—and counted up their profits, and wondered how much longer it will take to raise the great sum of $40, needed to defray expenses of printing the super-picture, "Sweet Sixteen," and bringing it to the screen.

It's a finished product, except for printing. So Ernest and the two other pioneers are at work, one in a railway advertising department, one as a way bill sorter, another in a canning factory—earning their $40. And when they're through, they'll have no jobs, but they will have a real picture.

Employee Becomes Competitor
But here's the rub.

George Gere, originally, was cameraman for the infant Real Film Company. But—well, differences will develop, even in the best regulated corporations. All at once, George no longer was with the company. All at once, he had a company of his own, and this time he was not only cameraman but also owner, director, producer and hero.

So last night George's film master piece, "The Perfect Sheik," neared completion.

And, said Ernest, "we'll beat George yet."

But, said George, "I bet my picture is finished first. I'll show that guy."

And there you are.
If Ernest must earn $40, to finish his picture, George must go to Brainerd, to finish his. Exigencies of the plot he wrote demand it. He must take some of his company along, too, in about two weeks—just as Gloria Swanson took American actors to France to make "Madame Sans Gene" says George—but will recruit some of his cast from Brainerd talent.

Ernest is director and president of the company, Robert De Vinney, University high school, one of the other moving spirits in the production, is art director, author of the scenario and hero of the picture; Otto Mueller, Central high school, St. Paul, is cinematographer (which means he does the "shooting" of the scenes).

All Work Done by Boys
All photographing, directing, writing, acting and financing of the picture was done by the boys, with Ernest starting them off. And when the picture is printed, it's to be produced at Twin City theaters.

There's a stock company, with shares $1 a throw. There now are 14 shareholders, and the capital stock has reached the grand total of $50.

And if one canning factory and two railroads are good enough to pay three artistic employees $40 in a hurry, "Sweet Sixteen's" fame will be made. And there'll be one more candidate for the ranks of De Mille and Griffith.

If only George Gere doesn't get there first.—Minneapolis Journal.

His Business Proposition

By W. C. SHERLOCK

WNU Service

GENTLEMEN, I am thirty thousand dollars short in my accounts as trustee!"

Howard Marriott, president in the legal profession, director of several banks and trustee of the estates of many widows and orphans, spoke calmly and deliberately.

The three gentlemen, each president of a large life insurance company, sitting on the opposite side of the long desk, stared at each other in blank amazement at Marriott's confession—then fixed their eyes upon the speaker.

"Gentlemen," continued Marriott, drawing three life insurance policies from his pocket, "as I said, I am thirty thousand dollars short in my accounts as trustee of various estates. There is no possible way by which I can repay this money unless you agree to my proposition."

"You're a cool hand, Marriott, I must confess," remarked Mr. Walker, half-admiringly. "Most men would either cut and run or commit suicide if they were in your fix."

"My proposition is this," continued Marriott, apparently not heeding the interruption: "I hold here, three incontestable policies on my life. Each is for twenty thousand dollars. The premiums that have been paid do not make a very large sum and the cash surrender values of these policies would not pay the shortage of which I have spoken."

"Then why have you sent for us?" demanded Mr. Washburne, impatiently. "Your affairs are no concern of ours."

"I have sent for you to offer to turn these policies over to you," replied Marriott calmly, "upon the payment to me of ten thousand dollars for each. That will enable me to make good to those who have been defrauded through me."

"Impossible! You must be crazy!" chorused the three presidents, rising, as if to terminate the interview.

"My proposition will save you, or rather your companies, ten thousand dollars apiece," continued Marriott, drawing a little bottle from his vest pocket and holding it so that it could be plainly seen. "Two or three drops of this liquid will end my life in as many minutes and your companies will be called upon to pay my executors twenty thousand dollars apiece. That will amount to sixty thousand dollars and will repay the shortage to those who have been wronged through me; the remainder, as I have no heirs, I have directed to be paid over to several charitable institutions. It is for you to decide, gentlemen. Will you pay the ten or the twenty thousand apiece?"

The presidents drew their chairs close together in whispered consultation.

"The thing is impossible," remarked Mr. Walker, irritably. "Marriott is a fool to expect us to do such a thing."

"It would be a precedent for every rogue in the country to extort money from insurance companies," interposed Mr. Shelton, with conviction. "I, for one, am opposed to any such compromise."

"Better be careful," advised Mr. Washburne, cautiously. "I fully believe Marriott means what he says and I, for one, don't care to witness a suicide."

"I shall give you five minutes to discuss the question, gentlemen," called Marriott, laying his open watch upon the desk. "Then I shall decide for you."

The whispered consultation continued, and at last Mr. Washburne, as spokesman for the three, turned to Marriott.

"Why did you take that money? he asked, earnestly. "You have always been considered honest and above suspicion, enjoying the confidence of every one."

"The money was taken from me by some one whom I will not name," replied Marriott, wearily. "I placed confidence in one person, who has repaid me by robbing me, not only of all I had but of that which was entrusted to my care. That is all I can say."

"We may do as you wish," continued Mr. Washburne, more pityingly than sternly. "If you will consent to two conditions. The first is that you will never tell anyone that we have bought your policies for such a sum, so far in excess of their value."

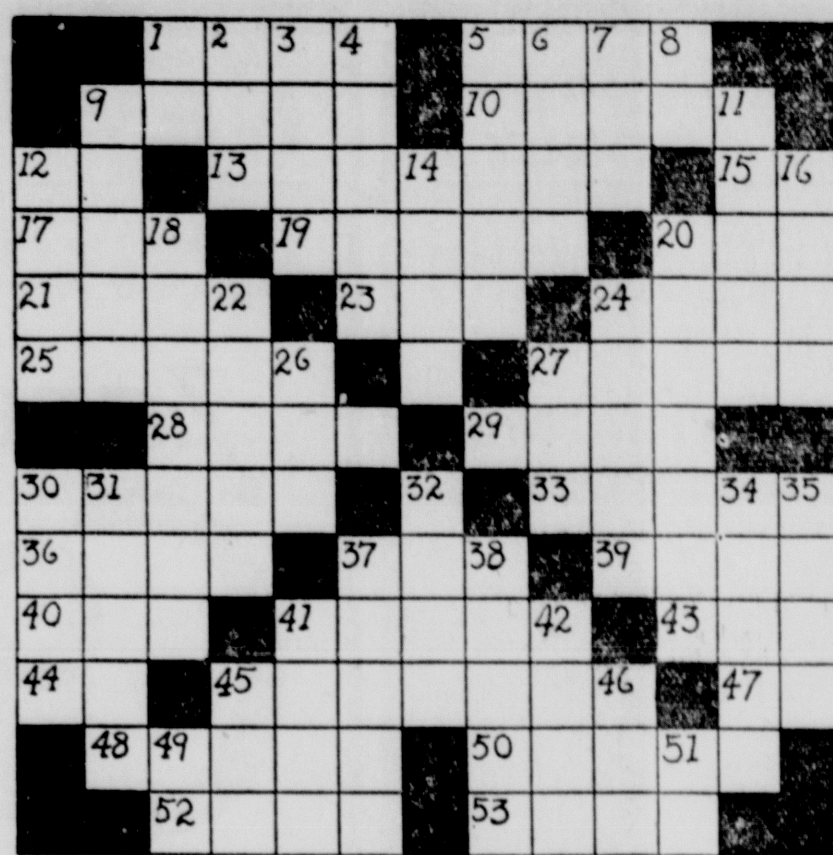

"I promise that," replied Marriott, "if you, upon your part, agree not to reveal my defalcation to any one."

"We will keep your secret inviolate," affirmed Mr. Washburne. "The second condition is that you turn over all trust moneys to some one to be appointed by the court. If you agree to that, we will accept your proposition, although we will have to request that we be permitted to oversee the transfer of the trust funds."

"It was my purpose," responded Marriott in the same listless tone, "in the event of your acceptance of my proposition, to turn over my trusts and never, under any circumstances, be responsible for a dollar of another person's money. If that is all, gentlemen, just sign these agreements to pay ten thousand dollars each when the court appoints a new trustee, and then accompany me to the courthouse to file my petition for release from my trusteeships."

A DEFENSELESS CITY

THE LITERARY DIGEST, commenting on the proposal of the Minnesota State Board of Health, says tourists are familiar enough with danger signals, but to be greeted by safety signs will be something new. The Minnesota board is posting signs in certain municipalities assuring the travelers and the strangers within its gates that its water is clean and pure, and good to drink. This action has the sanction of the United States Public Health Service.

The signs are 18 by 24 inches and will be placed under the trunk highway signs. Now read this:

"Municipalities which are permitted to post these signs agree to have the water supplies investigated at least once a year and to make any reasonable changes, alterations, improvements or repairs to the water supply system which may be necessary from time to time to maintain the system in a satisfactory and approved condition."

The St. Cloud Daily Journal-Press then states that when travelers along the half dozen trunk highways centering in St. Cloud, are told by signs that the water supplies of Anoka, Brainerd, Willmar, Sauk Centre, Foley, Sauk Rapids, and other towns through which they pass is pure and undefiled, what sort of reputation is St. Cloud going to get, when it has no such signs—and if the people were to be properly warned it would have a sign reading: "St. Cloud water not fit to drink."

And when the tourists learn that within a hundred or less feet of the pumping station of St. Cloud there is an abundant supply of pure water that can be connected with the mains for a very small sum, which can be paid by the water bureau without a cent of general taxes, what are they going to think and say about St. Cloud?

TOO MUCH LA FOLLETTE

WHEN THE DISPATCH voiced the opinion that Mrs. La Follette should be returned to the senate as the best successor of her husband, no one had an idea that the whole family would respond and get a political bee in their respective bunnets.

The widow may file for the senate. The son, Robert, Jr., may enter the senatorial campaign next year and be an opponent of Irvine Lenroot, who seeks re-election.

The second son, Philip, who is now district attorney at Madison, has a broad program. He has his eyes on several things including the governorship, the United States congress or the senate.

We maintain that Mrs. La Follette can be elected, but if the whole family of mother and two sons run for office, the La Follette family will be overdoing things and the voters of the sovereign state of Wisconsin will balk at a program which hands all the big offices of a state in the keeping of a La Follette triumvirate.

Such a situation of a family in politics has never been evidenced in any other state in the union.

MAYBE THEY WILL PAVE THIS YEAR

MAYBE our State Highway No. 27 will be paved from Belle Prairie to Brainerd this year. We are assured of having this section graded and contractors are now at work.

The unexpected surplus accumulated by State Highway Commissioner C. M. Babcock, in various ways from savings in contracts let, increased car license and gasoline tax receipts, now makes probable completion of work intended for 1926.

The paving of "27" had been set for 1926, but with good luck and the cooperation of Mr. Babcock it may see such paving completed earlier than first anticipated. Every mile of hard paving, substituted for gravel road, means much in lowering maintenance costs.

Our Gull lake road, for instance, has seen so much heavy traffic with the rowing influx of the tourists and fishermen, etc., that the "washboard" effect is being accentuated and will soon make expert "shimmy" artists out of all of us, rivalling the fair Gilda Grey.

BRITAIN RESENTS PRESS AGENT "STUFF"

ALL Britain is shocked over the work of an American press agent who used a British band and a battalion of a reserve artillery regiment in a publicity scheme to call attention to an American "super film." The British press pictures the press agent as sitting at his telephone with his ears burning answering criticisms over the daring and tradition-wrecking publicity stunt, and thinking of the public apology his company made. The uproar has even reached parliament and the Times, no doubt, is today filled with letters of protest from "Pro Bono Publico" and other worthies who take their pen in hand and seek to save the nation by spilling a bottle of ink.

Back of all this ruction, however, is a fight between British and American films for the favor of the British public. And it sometimes takes some mighty wallops to stir the British public to action and maybe the publicity man in this case, James V. Bryson, has done it with a band and artillery support.

A MERGER OF THREE RAILWAYS

MERGERS of railways in the east do not create a flare of interest in Brainerd, but when talk persists that the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington lines may merge, then this consolidation business strikes right in our own neighborhood.

The whole question of the merger of these three roads may be decided at the next session of congress, and such opinion is voiced by experts in railway affairs. Hearings have been held by the commission and a decision may soon be announced.

The consolidation of these three railway lines will result in consolidating their various functions so that duplication will be avoided in departments. One of the most important departments of a railway is its repair shops. In the treatment of this repair work rests the interest of Brainerd in the consolidation. If the status quo is maintained, well and good. If we get more work, well so much the better for Brainerd. But if we lose some of our repair business, it will soon be reflected in our payrolls.

RAILWAY business is picking up. For the first six months of this year the Northern Pacific railway company expects to show a decided increase in net revenue.

THE Fourth of July is to be our new Defense Day.

The Dayton, Tennessee, Trial

Editor Brainerd Dispatch:

The world in which we live is, indeed, very interesting. The religious nature of man has, perhaps, caused more activity, both good and evil, than any other nature inherent in man. By a study of religious history we find this to be true. The many foolishnesses, murders and cruelties committed in the name of religion, and sometimes in the name of the lovely Nazarene, often causes man to lose faith in all religions. They look only on the negative side and can not see the good it has brought to the world. The well meaning people who went up the hill to meet Jesus, the 26th of Feb., gave us an interesting demonstration of how Bible worship paralyzes human intelligence. The trial in Dayton gives us another demonstration of how religion goes wrong, as it has done so often in past centuries.

What is the real cause for such actions? Why did the good people in Tennessee forbid the teaching of Evolution in the public schools?

Our religious instruction is behind time. They are never taught to "Seek the truth." They are never taught "To prove all and behold that which is good," in regard to the bible, and it is so much easier to hug our prejudices than to acquire knowledge enough to overcome them.

W. J. Bryan, is the prophet and leader in changing the peculiar law, made by people who do not know nor understand the nature of that teaching. They think that it contradicts the story of creation found in the first book of Moses. The modern scientist are far ahead of Moses as they try to find the method by which God created and creates the Universe. Moses wrote nothing about that subject. When we have learnt to know the method, He will appear a greater God to us. When we find that He rules and creates with eternal laws and principles, and we find that He is a rational God, that He is not an arbitrary ruler. Only as we get that conception of God, is progress possible, which will lead us from darkness to light.

A DEFENSELESS CITY

THE LITERARY DIGEST, commenting on the proposal of the Minnesota State Board of Health, says tourists are familiar enough with danger signals, but to be greeted by safety signs will be something new. The Minnesota board is posting signs in certain municipalities assuring the travelers and the strangers within its gates that its water is clean and pure, and good to drink. This action has the sanction of the United States Public Health Service.

The signs are 18 by 24 inches and will be placed under the trunk highway signs. Now read this:

"Municipalities which are permitted to post these signs agree to have the water supplies investigated at least once a year and to make any reasonable changes, alterations, improvements or repairs to the water supply system which may be necessary from time to time to maintain the system in a satisfactory and approved condition."

The St. Cloud Daily Journal-Press then states that when travelers along the half dozen trunk highways centering in St. Cloud, are told by signs that the water supplies of Anoka, Brainerd, Willmar, Sauk Centre, Foley, Sauk Rapids, and other towns through which they pass is pure and undefiled, what sort of reputation is St. Cloud going to get, when it has no such signs—and if the people were to be properly warned it would have a sign reading: "St. Cloud water not fit to drink."

And when the tourists learn that within a hundred or less feet of the pumping station of St. Cloud there is an abundant supply of pure water that can be connected with the mains for a very small sum, which can be paid by the water bureau without a cent of general taxes, what are they going to think and say about St. Cloud?

TOO MUCH LA FOLLETTE

WHEN THE DISPATCH voiced the opinion that Mrs. La Follette should be returned to the senate as the best successor of her husband, no one had an idea that the whole family would respond and get a political bee in their respective bunnets.

The widow may file for the senate. The son, Robert, Jr., may enter the senatorial campaign next year and be an opponent of Irvine Lenroot, who seeks re-election.

The second son, Philip, who is now district attorney at Madison, has a broad program. He has his eyes on several things including the governorship, the United States congress or the senate.

We maintain that Mrs. La Follette can be elected, but if the whole family of mother and two sons run for office, the La Follette family will be overdoing things and the voters of the sovereign state of Wisconsin will balk at a program which hands all the big offices of a state in the keeping of a La Follette triumvirate.

Such a situation of a family in politics has never been evidenced in any other state in the union.

MAYBE THEY WILL PAVE THIS YEAR

MAYBE our State Highway No. 27 will be paved from Belle Prairie to Brainerd this year. We are assured of having this section graded and contractors are now at work.

The unexpected surplus accumulated by State Highway Commissioner C. M. Babcock, in various ways from savings in contracts let, increased car license and gasoline tax receipts, now makes probable completion of work intended for 1926.

The paving of "27" had been set for 1926, but with good luck and the cooperation of Mr. Babcock it may see such paving completed earlier than first anticipated. Every mile of hard paving, substituted for gravel road, means much in lowering maintenance costs.

Our Gull lake road, for instance, has seen so much heavy traffic with their rowing influx of the tourists and fishermen, etc., that the "washboard" effect is being accentuated and will soon make expert "shimmy" artists out of all of us, rivalling the fair Gilda Grey.

BRITAIN RESENTS PRESS AGENT "STUFF"

ALL Britain is shocked over the work of an American press agent who used a British band and a battalion of a reserve artillery regiment in a publicity scheme to call attention to an American "super film." The British press pictures the press agent as sitting at his telephone with his ears burning answering criticisms over the daring and tradition-wrecking publicity stunt, and thinking of the public apology his company made. The uproar has even reached parliament and the Times, no doubt, is today filled with letters of protest from "Pro Bono Publico" and other worthies who take their pen in hand and seek to save the nation by spilling a bottle of ink.

Back of all this ruction, however, is a fight between British and American films for the favor of the British public. And it sometimes takes some mighty wallop to stir the British public to action and maybe the publicity man in this case, James V. Bryson, has done it with a band and artillery support.

A MERGER OF THREE RAILWAYS

MERGERS of railways in the east do not create a flare of interest in Brainerd, but when talk persists that the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington lines may merge, then this consolidation business strikes right in our own neighborhood.

The whole question of the merger of these three roads may be decided at the next session of congress, and such opinion is voiced by experts in railway affairs. Hearings have been held by the commission and a decision may soon be announced.

The consolidation of these three railway lines will result in consolidating their various functions so that duplication will be avoided in departments. One of the most important departments of a railway is its repair shops. In the treatment of this repair work rests the interest of Brainerd in the consolidation. If the status quo is maintained, well and good. If we get more work, well so much the better for Brainerd. But if we lose some of our repair business, it will soon be reflected in our payrolls.

RAILWAY business is picking up. For the first six months of this year the Northern Pacific railway company expects to show a decided increase in net revenue.

THE Fourth of July is to be our new Defense Day.

The Dayton, Tennessee, Trial

Editor Brainerd Dispatch:

The world in which we live is, indeed, very interesting. The religious nature of man has, perhaps, caused more activity, both good and evil, than any other nature inherent in man. By a study of religious history we find this to be true. The many foolishnesses, murders and cruelties committed in the name of religion, and sometimes in the name of the lowly Nazarene, often causes man to lose faith in all religions. They look only on the negative side and can not see the good it has brought to the world.

The well meaning people who went up the hill to meet Jesus, the 26th of Feb., gave us an interesting demonstration of how Bible worship paralyzes human intelligence. The trial in Dayton gives us another demonstration of how religion goes wrong, as it has done so often in past centuries.

What is the real cause for such actions? Why did the good people in Tennessee forbid the teaching of Evolution in the public schools?

Our religious instruction is behind time. They are never taught to "Seek the truth." They are never taught "To prove all and behold that which is good," in regard to the bible, and it is so much easier to hug our prejudices than to acquire knowledge enough to overcome them.

W. J. Bryan, is the prophet and leader in enacting the peculiar law, made by people who do not know nor understand the nature of that teaching. They think that it contradicts the story of creation found in the first book of Moses. The modern scientist are far ahead of Moses as they try to find the method by which God created and creates the Universe. Moses wrote nothing about that subject. When we have learnt to know the method, He will appear a greater God to us. When we find that He rules and creates with eternal laws and principles, and we find that He is a rational God, that He is not an arbitrary ruler. Only as we get that conception of God, is progress possible, which will lead us from darkness to light.

WASTEFULNESS HELD OBSTACLE TO LABOR'S AIMS

SELLING AND CREDIT COSTS TOO
HIGH SAYS TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION PRESIDENT

CLAIMS 1 TO 6 HOURS A DAY OF LABOR SUFFICIENT WITH WASTE ELIMINATED

Indianapolis, June 27.—Wastefulness in American industrial and commercial life constitutes one of the greatest obstacles in the way of labor's aspirations, James M. Lynch, president of the International Typographical Union, said in a statement issued to members today. The statement was based upon findings of an economic investigation conducted by the union.

"Enormous waste in wealth and manpower characterizes nearly every line of American business endeavor," said Mr. Lynch. "The 'middle man' takes an unnecessarily heavy toll from producer and consumer. Selling and credit costs run the nation's bill for necessities to an absurdly high figure.

"Improvement in the lot of the worker-wage-earner and farmer can not be greatly advanced until the national habit of wastefulness is assailed and reduced.

"I think it may be boldly asserted that four hours a day of labor, certainly not more than six hours, would suffice to produce all the manufactured things necessary to human existence in this country and that with scientific methods applied to agriculture the farms would yield sufficient food on the basis of an average six-hour day to meet the needs of humanity, if the chief items of waste could be eliminated.

"We have come to speak of salesmanship almost with bated breath as the great American art, yet as a matter of fact intensive selling methods are intrinsically wasteful and of no real service to humanity. It has become common business practice to dispose of merchandise and service not on the grounds of quality and merit, but by virtue of superior salesmanship. Manufacturers allow as high as forty per cent of their total operating expense for selling. The jobber adds his selling cost and the retailer adds his, and eventually the consumer pays double or triple the value of his purchase for the luxury of being persuaded to buy.

"Modern advertising media have attained the capacity to exhibit all the merchandise anyone has to sell before all prospective buyers without the aid of armies of salesmen combing the country to harass buyers into investing.

"That we are overdoing this selling business is a natural conclusion if one but reflects upon the manner in which salesmen are greeted in the average office. They are not wanted. They are looked upon as a nuisance. Most buyers know they can go to market for all that they need and that they would save much time if relieved of the importunities of salesmen. It is becoming axiomatic that if one possesses talent as a salesman he can make money whether he possesses any useful knowledge or honesty of purpose or not. Hence more and more young men and women are crowding into the selling business instead of into producing lines.

"From an ethical viewpoint any talent, beyond knowledge of his product, that a salesman employs in his work must be of little value to organized society, if not downright dishonest. Certainly selling, regarded as a profession, soon shades off into polite swindling. I am speaking, of course, of the peripatetic or outside salesman, whose mind teems with schemes for artful triumphs over buyers.

"Without conceding too much from the general superiority of American industrial and commercial methods, we might deign to observe the European attitude toward the salesman. The glib monologist and the cheap tactician, whose exploits form so large a part of American folk lore, would not be tolerated for a minute in England, for instance. The salesman is a native American nuisance.

"It is not the intention to condemn all salesmen. Some serve a really useful social purpose. But the vocation is overcrowded. The number of men and women, engaged more or less successfully in selling in this country, comes near to approximating the number actually engaged in production. Their number could be reduced by about one-half without any great loss to national wealth or service, and with this half restored to useful labor material wealth would be vastly increased.

"If the unnecessary salesmen, the spenders, the wasters, the improvident heirs to fortune, the petty criminals and other humans who have never known work could be induced to engage in useful endeavor, hours of labor could be reduced, working conditions improved and a greater prosperity would be available for all. The cultural and recreational advantages thus gained would greatly improve the race.

"This may appear utopian dreaming, but the problem is one that must be dealt with. Destructiveness and wastefulness in business methods are drawing on grave dangers. Consider that the total debt of nation, state, county, city and other civil divisions, 1922-1923, was $32,786,717,000, of which the debts of those units, other than the federal government with its war debts, totaled more than $10,000,000,000 and the indebtedness of many of those units is constantly increasing; and consider, also, that the total wealth of the United States, as represented by gold and currency, is approximately $8,746,000,000, or about one-fourth of the governmental indebtedness.

"Consider, too, the labyrinth of individual debt that is now reaching into the most modest homes as well as into the high places. I am told that many business houses are going in for installment selling exclusively because they are learning that credit buyers scrutinize neither price nor quality as closely as do cash buyers, and furthermore an installment plan customer, once 'hooked' is bound to continue patronizing his creditor.

"Any proposal looking to reduction of waste is certainly in order. All classes of society should come to frown upon wasteful business methods as detrimental to the public interests. And the worker's concern should be greatest of all since, under present conditions, his share of life's good things is always the first to be menaced."

with him a vase alleged to bring rain in large quantities.

While in Peking, the Living Buddha placed this vase in the Pei Hai (North Lake of the Winter Palace) and, presumably as a result, rain fell. But more rain was wanted in other districts. Great was the consternation when it was found that in some way the vase had disappeared. Energetic steps are being taken to recover it, while the Chinese farmers dismally predict a dry summer in spite of good spring rains.

Advantage has been taken to the situation by General Chang Tsung-chang, new tupan of Shantung province, to gain popularity. He first prayed for rain and next caused 120 guns to be fired on a hillside just outside Tsinanfu. No rain resulted but the people were greatly pleased at this evidence of solicitude for their welfare.

To clinch his advantage, General Chang has sent for the famous rain-making iron tablet from Hantansien. This tablet, a most sacred relic, was brought to Peking last summer after long drought and immediately after its arrival rain fell in such quantities as to render many thousands of persons homeless and to kill nearly 15,000 outright in the floods. More caution is to be exercised in praying before it this year, it is understood.

MINNESOTA RADIO FARM SCHOOL PUPILS ARE GIVEN VACATION

To enable farmers hereabouts and elsewhere to put into practice the things they have learned in six months of radio schooling, a vacation period of two months has been decreed by the Radio Farm School of the Blue Valley Creamery Institute, according to information sent to "pupils" in this county. The July 3 session of school will be the last of the present semester, and school will start again on September 7.

So successful has the Radio Farm School been from the point of view of practical value to the farmer that plans are under way to make next fall and winter even more useful to the man in the fields, says C. M. Long, director of the school. Six or more stations, a picked faculty of farm experts, and a curriculum adapted to the everyday needs of the man in the country—all these combined will mean even a further step in the advance of farming by means of the radio, he says. The tentative list of stations to broadcast the Radio Farm School follows: WMAQ, Chicago; WOC, Davenport, WWJ, Detroit; KFKX, Hastings; WDAY, Fargo; and KFRL, Bismarck.

Thousands of Minnesota farmers have been benefited by the talks broadcast by the Radio Farm School. It is estimated by Mr. Long. Diversified farming, especially as it relates to the cow, the sow and the hen, was stressed at the semester about to close, and will be further continued in the fall. Monday has been designated as Hog Day, Tuesday as Poultry Day, and Wednesday as Dairy Day. Alfalfa, soybeans and other legumes have been discussed on Thursdays, while each Friday has been thrown open to the answers to questions sent in by the farm pupils. Among the instructors for next year are such nationally-known men as Prof. John M. Ervord, of Iowa; Dr. C. H. Evkies of Minnesota; Prof. A. G. Phillips of Purdue; Prof. O. E. Reed of Michigan; Prof. Oscar Erf of Ohio and Prof. J. C. Hackleman of Illinois.

SEEK TREASURE OF ALEXANDER

Archeologists Believe It Can Be Located.

A report sent from Baku says that search has been begun by the Azerbaijan Archeological society for the treasure of Alexander the Great, which is believed to be buried near the village of Andrievka. It is rather a relief that the quest for buried treasure has been shifted to the neighborhood of Baku, and that it is the wealth of Alexander which is sought. Search for the buried treasure of Captain Kidd and that of the Louisiana-Mississippi pirate-patriot, Jean Lafitte, has been carried on so extensively that it is right to give the treasure of Alexander a chance. So much also has been written of the buried treasures of the Incas and of gold in sunken galleons that it is diverting to hear from the region of the Caucasus mountains and the Caspian sea, in old Georgia, which is now the Azerbaijan republic.

Many unsatisfactory results have attended the search for buried treasure, and in the matter of finding the wealth of Alexander one should keep expectation and enthusiasm under control. It is believed that the third king of Macedon, in the thirty-three years of his active life between Pella and Babylon, may have accumulated wealth. In his triumphal travels in Byzantium, Egypt, Persia and other countries he might have gathered treasure. Whether he buried much of it, or any, near the village of Andrievka is the question.

Treasure of Alexander the Great would be double treasure. The gold would be gold worth so much an ounce, but the gold coins, vases and amulets taken from kings, princesses and priests at Thebes and scores of other cities would be worth more than their weight in gold. Lovers of antiques, lovers of things with imperial associations, lovers of things steeped in associations of war, plunder, conquest and assassination would bid against each other.

The dispatch says: "Although there are no precise historical data indicating the existence of such treasure, the archeologists were led to excavate by the statement of an 80-year-old resident of Andrievka, who says he owns an ancient map stolen from a Turkish sultan many years ago showing the spot where the treasure is buried. The old man's story of a stolen map has a reminiscent sound to persons who have been burnt by the buried treasure fever."

The dispatch also says that "It is an established historical fact that Alexander's troops mutinied at one point in the great empire builder's campaign against Persia—2,256 years ago—and local legend has it that he buried all his treasure somewhere on the Caspian littoral to prevent it falling into the hands of the mutineers. The trouble with many local legends of buried treasure is that they cover too much ground, and that it is hard to pin them down to any particular spot."

Got Idea in Dream

A "dream invention," making possible moving-picture shows in broad daylight is claimed by a young book-binder in Budapest, according to a dispatch from that city, the New York World says.

The inventor projects pictures not against a white screen but against a rapidly rotating disk covered with strips of dark green and dark blue paper which radiates from the center. The dispatch says the invention has been proved a complete success by experiments and is already patented. The inventor says the idea came to him in a dream and he is unable to explain it.

Nonasphyxiating Gas

A new heat and light-producing gas that is nonasphyxiating, has been brought to such high perfection that its heat value and candle power are said to be higher than ordinary gas. Dr. O. U. Bean, who made the Bunsen burner, is the inventor. The new gas is made from oil or the residuum from making gasoline. Ordinary gas contains 30 per cent of carbon monoxide, while the new gas contains none. The secret of its being nonasphyxiating is that it is made at lower temperature than ordinary gas. The process promises to be cheap.

Sailed on Famous Ship

Samuel G. Haskell, of Georgetown, Maine, was once a member of the crew of the Constitution, not when she was making her fighting reputation, but when she made her last voyage in 1878. She was sent to Havre, France, when the exposition at Paris was on, and remained there several months; the return trip was the last she ever made, and was done in 45 days from Havre to New York. Mr. Haskell was present when the celebration of the Constitution's 100th anniversary took place.

Coat of Arms Changed

The eagle and the sword on the West Point coat of arms has been reversed. For thirty years the coat of arms consisted of a perpendicularly striped shield, bearing on its face a helmet of Mars through which a sword ran diagonally downward from the right or "sinister" side. Surmounting it was an American eagle.

Food for Protest

There isn't much wrong in a country that doesn't afford grievances enough to feed a party of protest.—Duluth Herald.

Eleanor Boardman, Harrison Ford and Pat O'Malley in "PROUD FLESH"

King Vidor's Latest Picture a Delightful Comedy of Contrasts

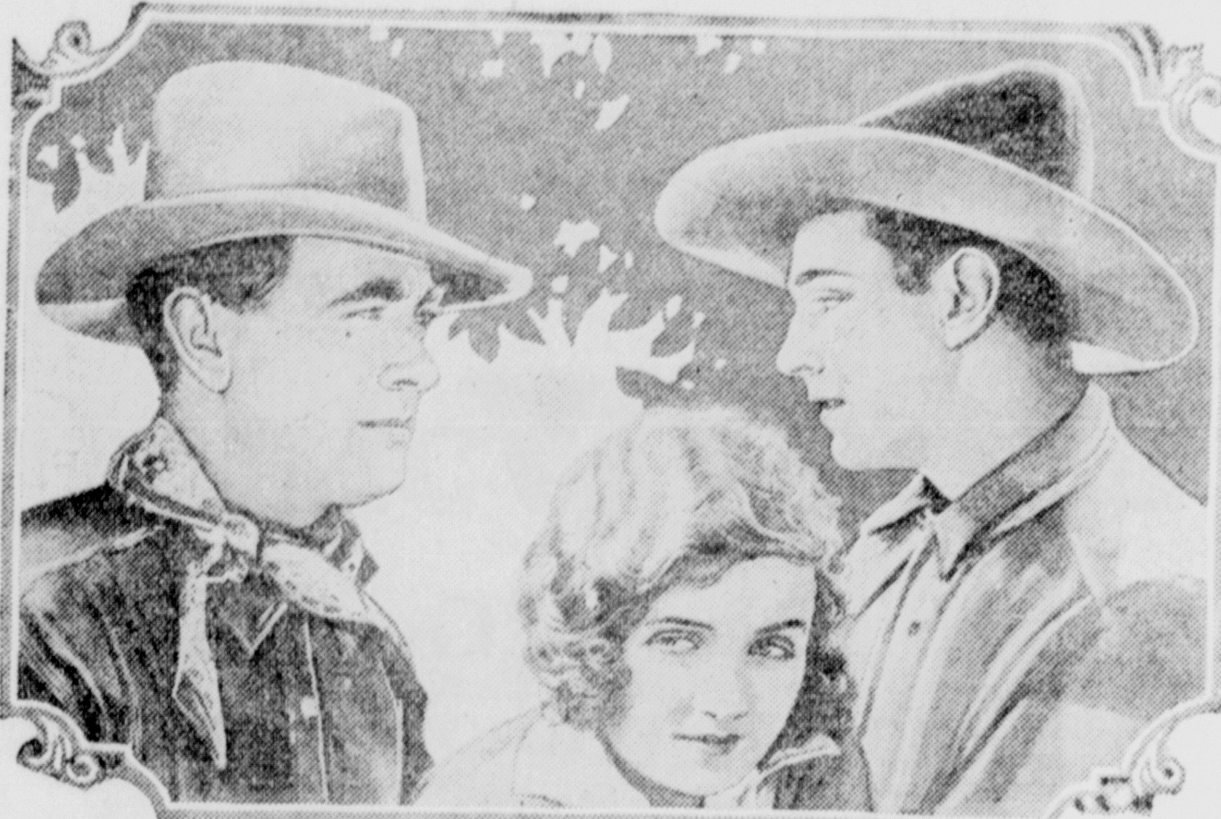

Gertrude Atherton, author of "Black Oxen," has this to say of Lawrence Riving's story, "Proud Flesh," which, pictured by King Vidor, comes to the Lyceum Theatre on Sunday for two days only.

"A classic picture of the eternal

San Francisco, past and present. A story of intense drama and passion. There is a solidity, a warmth and a glow about it. It entertains and absorbs and provokes and spurs the imagination. And Patrick O'Malley is a character to bring joy to the heart. If there really are O'Malleys in San Francisco, let us have them in society as quickly as possible.

Snobbery couldn't stand up against them."

"Proud Flesh" tells of the earthquake and fire that wiped out the old San Francisco and of the fresh courage that built up the new city. It is a story of the clash between the forceful, democratic energy of the new generation, and of the old, aristocratic pride.

Owen Moore, Constance Bennett and David Butler in Zane Grey's "Code of the West" A Paramount Picture

Paramount's "Code of the West" is Something New in Western Films

Readers of Zane Grey novels and film fans who have enjoyed the screen adaptations of his red-blooded stories are certain to be considerably surprised and not a little startled when they see the picture version of his latest book, "Code of the West." It will be shown at the New Park on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The striking thing about this new photoplay is that although it was written by Mr. Grey in his characteristic vivid and colorful style, with a rugged western setting, there isn't a single pistol shot fired in the entire production and only on two occasions are guns displayed. This phenomenon is explained by the fact that the conventional, double-dyed, two-gun villain, heretofore considered an essential character in every Zane Grey story, is conspicuously missing from "Code of the West." Furthermore, the story deals with the West of today. For Zane Grey these are radical departures.

Vaudeville at New Park Tonight

"Jack Bell's Melody Pirates" will be presented at the New Park tonight with the feature picture, "On Thin Ice." "The Melody Pirates" are an orchestra of eight pieces with two entertainers. Said to be eight of the jazziest jazzers you have ever heard. A red hot band and a feature picture all for popular prices. Don't miss this bill.

Buck Jones Stars in Gregory Story

It seems that Jackson Gregory writes stories to order for Buck Jones, the Western star. "The Outlaw," one of his most recent books, has been made into a picture, "Hearts and Spurs," starring Jones, and it is being shown at the Lyceum Theatre tonight only. It is a real western thriller.

"Hearts and Spurs" is a story of a courageous cow puncher who sacrifices himself in order to protect the brother of the girl he loves.

The picture has a thrilling chase and several slam-bang fights, climaxed by an avalanche which buries the hero and the villain in a shack. The villain is mortally hurt and, on his deathbed, assumes all the blame for the crime committed by the girl's brother.

Carol Lombard is Buck Jones' leading lady.

"On Thin Ice"

"On Thin Ice," the crook drama of San Francisco's underworld, at the New Park tonight, is said to be one of the pictures that keeps movie patrons in suspense as to the final outcome. This Warner "Classic of the Screen" is a genuine thriller and mystifier.

Tom Moore and Edith Roberts head the cast.

Bootleggers Are Barred From Woodmen

Chicago, June 26—Provisions forever barring persons who transport, sell or manufacture liquor illegally were written into the constitution of the Modern Woodmen of America at the twentieth quadrennial head camp of the organization here. The provision states that "no person shall become a social or beneficial member who is, or shall be engaged in manufacturing, selling or transporting of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes." Another amendment automatically expels any member at present engaged in those pursuits.

First prize for the best band at the encampment was awarded to the Percussion band from Palmyra, Ind., by the judges here. Evansville, Ind., was second, Fremont, Ohio, third, Windom, Minn., fourth and Bolivar, Mo., fifth.

All but one of the incumbent officers were re-elected. B. C. Spriggs of Grand Forks, N. D., was elected to the position of escort to succeed R. C. Belew of the same state, who retired.

The chief event Thursday and of the week, from the viewpoint of spectators, was the quadrennial Rainbow parade in which 6,000 uniformed Foresters, members of the Woodmen's drill organizations, marched on Michigan avenue.

In the junior division, Camp 379 of Racine, Wis., was first and in the intermediate division the winner was Camp 391 of Kenosha, Wis.

Winners in the pony division were Camp 8564 of Denver, first; Camp 4113 of Bennington, Neb., second, and Camp 782 of Stillwater, Minn., third.

Wrinkles Vanish Before Your Very Eyes!

Just think! In your mirror, before your very eyes, you see the wrinkles, age lines and sagging vanish from your face! And it's such a simple and harmless treatment. Just mix a spoonful of powdered tartrac with a spoonful of lemon juice. Apply to your face and watch the most marvelous change take place—in less than 15 minutes. See the horrid wrinkles, worry lines, creases and bagginess quickly disappear. It is a wonderful, startling sensation. Only the actual experience could make you believe it.

The application is easily washed off. The result is far better than the most expensive and expert face massage could ever give—and the treatment costs less than three cents! Procure an original package of powdered tartrac from your druggist, try it, and you will have the surprise of your life.

If you can't afford a Vacation

If the lack of time or money is chaining you to your own front porch—

Cheer Up!

Just walk into this cool store—select a few pieces of this new apparel and then just say to yourself—

"Joe is down at the lake where mosquitoes are thicker than the fish."

"Harry is up in the mountains where the food and flies are terrific."

"Charlie is motoring in dust and detours."

PARADE ON 4TH

All Entrants to be Miniature, Variety of Entries Unlimited

BUSINESS MEN TAKE PART

A. A. Englund is Chairman of Parade Feature of Celebration

One of the especially attractive features of the Fourth of July celebration this year is to be the parade. It will follow the same general lines as that of last year, with the exception of size. This year's parade is to be staged on a much larger scale with many more floats than its predecessor.

All entrants in this parade are to be in miniature, but the variety of the entries is unlimited. Local business men are to be asked to enter floats advertising their particular wares, and a great deal of interest is already developed.

A. A. Englund is chairman of the committee in charge of the parade, and has called a meeting of his workers for this evening to complete plans. Since the parade is to be the opening feature of the celebration, it is important that it be given much thought and preparation.

The entire celebration is to be confined to Lum park, as it was last year and is again being sponsored by the local post of the American Legion. With the new addition to the park this year, there will be much more room for extending the festivities, more space for picnic parties who will take their dinners and stay all day at the celebration, and more room for parking automobiles.

The sports program will be emphasized this year more than last. Water and land contests for old and young are to be staged, and those who expect to enter are advised to begin training now, for there will be plenty of competition in the various events.

A. A. Gierlet has been selected as marshal of the day, and is also chairman of the committee on securing a speaker who will deliver the patriotic address.

The day's observance is expected to start at about 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, with a band concert, followed by the parade, at 10:30. At 11 o'clock the program of speeches will be carried out, a special speakers' stand to be erected for the occasion.

The long list of sports will be put on immediately after dinner, and there will be dancing afternoon and evening. Daylight and evening fireworks have already been ordered, the majority of the pieces being new creations this season.

The speaker of the day, while not definitely decided upon, is expected to be some prominent person. Hon. Harold Knutson will be secured if possible, it is said.

Braierd and the surrounding country is invited and urged to come to the celebration, to bring the whole family, and stay during the day and evening. There will be "something doing every minute," with the whole park at the disposal of those in attendance.

RECENT RAINS IN

Shoulders of Some of State Highways Need Repair Work

TRAVELING SURFACE INTACT

Sunday Motorist Will Find Road Conditions Generally Good

Recent rains have caused minor damages to the shoulders of some of the state highways in Crow Wing county, according to County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy, but the traveling surface of these roads has not been injured, so that Sunday motorists will find generally good highway conditions awaiting them. Mr. Murphy reports as follows on the roads under his supervision:

State Road No. 2. (Dewey highway from Ft. Ripley east to Mills Lake.) Work on the cut-off on this road is being pushed as rapidly as possible considering the rainy weather. The new bridge is practically completed, and it is expected that the surfacing will be done within the next three weeks.

State Road No. 3. (Braierd, Merrifield, Cross Lake, Emily.) Braierd to Merrifield and Cross Lake, very good. Next two miles sand trail. This is being cleared and grubbed, and it is expected that a new road will be built eventually. Balance of road to Emily very good.

State Road No. 4. (Crosby north to Emily and Outing.) New construction between Crosby and Mississippi river bridge now being graveled. Work on this new road has been seriously delayed because of rains. Three weeks at least will be required before it will be ready for traffic. Motorists are advised to detour on the old cut-off north from Crosby.

State Road No. 5. (Deerwood, Bay Lake and south.) This road is very good its entire length, and offers a very scenic drive, as well as a connecting link between Trunk Highway No. 16 at the Workman corner, 16 miles east of Braierd, and No. 2 at Deerwood.

White line roads, feeders for the state roads, are in good condition generally, those in the northern part of the county being better than the one in the south, the latter suffering from the rains.

Special attention is called to White Line No. 10, also termed the Inland Trail, connecting Merrifield and a Breezy Point on Pelican lake. This road is in very good condition and shortens the distance to Breezy Point by nine miles.

Other important White Lines are those from Pequot and Jenkins east to Cross Lake and Emily, and the new road which follows the north bank of the Mississippi river from the bridge north of Crosby through the Mission lakes connecting with the State Road No. 3 north of Braierd.

Other construction work under Mr. Murphy's supervision includes the new road on the south and east side of the addition to Lum park. Work here is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible in the hope that it will be completed by July 4th.

The new road through West Braierd through Baxter township is under the joint supervision of Mr. Murphy and City Engineer R. T. Campbell. This construction will probably be rushed with county equipment.

PARADE ON 4TH

All Entrants to be Miniature, Variety of Entries Unlimited

BUSINESS MEN TAKE PART

A. A. Englund is Chairman of Parade Feature of Celebration

One of the especially attractive features of the Fourth of July celebration this year is to be the parade. It will follow the same general lines as that of last year, with the exception of size. This year's parade is to be staged on a much larger scale with many more floats than its predecessors.

All entrants in this parade are to be in miniature, but the variety of the entries is unlimited. Local business men are to be asked to enter floats advertising their particular wares, and a great deal of interest is already developed.

A. A. Englund is chairman of the committee in charge of the parade, and has called a meeting of his workers for this evening to complete plans. Since the parade is to be the opening feature of the celebration, it is important that it be given much thought and preparation.

The entire celebration is to be confined to Lum park, as it was last year and is again being sponsored by the local post of the American Legion. With the new addition to the park this year, there will be much more room for extending the festivities, more space for picnic parties who will take their dinners and stay all day at the celebration, and more room for parking automobiles.

The sports program will be emphasized this year more than last. Water and land contests for old and young are to be staged, and those who expect to enter are advised to begin training now, for there will be plenty of competition in the various events.

A. A. Gleriet has been selected as marshal of the day, and is also chairman of the committee on securing a speaker who will deliver the patriotic address.

The day's observance is expected to start at about 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, with a band concert, followed by the parade, at 10:30. At 11 o'clock the program of speeches will be carried out, a special speakers' stand to be erected for the occasion.

The long list of sports will be put on immediately after dinner, and there will be dancing afternoon and evening. Daylight and evening fireworks have already been ordered, the majority of the pieces being new creations this season.

The speaker of the day, while not definitely decided upon, is expected to be some prominent person. Hon. Harold Knutson will be secured if possible, it is said.

Braierd and the surrounding country is invited and urged to come to the celebration, to bring the whole family, and stay during the day and evening. There will be "something doing every minute," with the whole park at the disposal of those in attendance.

ALL MAJOR CLUBS AFTER CARROLL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, June 27.—Some of Ty Cobb's pitching worries will be relieved if Owen Carroll, the former Holy Cross star, lives up to expectations. Carroll is the most promising graduate from the collegiate ranks since George Sisler left the University of Michigan and he is perhaps the greatest pitcher ever developed on a college diamond.

In the past two years a number of veteran scouts, who draw pay for the judgment on young ball players, were asked who was the greatest prospect they had seen and the answer without hesitation—"Carroll of Holy Cross." Every major league team was after Carroll, but Cobb sneaked one over on them when he secured the pledge of the youngster two years ago. Carroll turned down all the early offers saying that he intended to study for the priesthood, but he promised to join the Detroit club if he decided to take up the professional game. This promise was taken as binding by Commissioner Landis when Carroll tried to obtain a release from his pledge so that he could join the New York Giants.

Connie Mack was supposed to have first call on all the Holy Cross players through his friendship with Jack Barry, the Holy Cross coach and a former star of the Philadelphia Athletics.

In four years of college pitching Carroll was only beaten twice. He has everything that a good pitcher needs, he can field and he is a fine hitter. It is possible that he might turn into another versatile player like Sisler, who was a pitcher when he was at Michigan. Carroll ought to have less difficulty in making the grade without minor league experience than the average college player because the Holy Cross team is better than the average minor league club. In this connection it is an unusual fact that the Holy Cross team, playing at home, outdraws the Worcester Eastern League club. The professional club plays most of its games away from home until the college season closes.

While he was by far the best player developed, there were other good prospects on the Eastern college diamonds. Eddie Farrell, a young shortstop from the University of Pennsylvania is now with the Giants. He attracted the attention of a number of scouts by his fine hitting, although he didn't make as much use of the stick this year as he did last season.

Geantreau, the Holy Cross second baseman, was another star who is thought to be ready for fast company. He was signed by Connie Mack, who is going to send him to the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League for a year of polishing. Mack found this plan very successful with Mickey Cochran, who was sent from Boston College to Portland and turned out the best catcher in the major leagues. It was Cochran who really made the Athletics what they are this year.

Charley Caldwell, the Princeton football, hockey and baseball star, was another fine pitching prospect but he would not listen to offers. Very few of the "Big Three" athletes care for professional baseball and many other college players object to a hitch in the minors. Caldwell was one of the two pitchers with a decision over Carroll. He shut out Holy Cross 1 to 0 in 1923.

Dominick Thorpe, the star pitcher of New York University, has received several offers from the New York clubs and it is understood that the Cincinnati Reds are interested in him.

MINNESOTA FARMERS URGED TO PLANT EMERGENCY HAY CROP

Immediate planting of soybeans of sudan grass as a means of overcoming the poor pasture and prospective short hay crop brought about by the hot and protracted dry weather in many sections is urged upon Minnesota farmers by the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. Late estimates of the state's hay crop this year is that it will be a million tons under that of last year, and its condition is 1 per cent below the ten year average for this season of the year.

On farms in the state where the hay crop shows the effects of the dry and hot weather farmers should lose no time in renewing provisions for forage for the summer and fall, according to the Institute. The season is too far advanced for the planting of early emergency crops, and soybeans or sudan grass or a combination of both are about the most practicable for immediate use. They have been planted successfully as late as July 1, but the county agent or state agricultural college should be consulted on the particular varieties best suited to local soils and conditions.

Soybeans have been found particularly valuable on poor soils low in lime where other legumes failed to catch without fertilizer or lime, says the Institute, and yields have averaged from one to three tons per acre, varying with rainfall and temperature. Furthermore, soybeans improve the soil, fit into the crop rotation system, stand heat and drought well, grow well on a great variety of soils, and the hay is particularly well adapted as a substitute for clover and alfalfa, where these may have been winterkilled. Because of its high protein content and palatability, it is conceded to rank in feeding value almost as high as alfalfa.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Training School of American Generals

It is doubtful if any other post in the United States has known as many of our famous military leaders as Jefferson Barracks, Mo. When Jefferson Davis became secretary of war in 1853 he determined to form a regiment which would be the best in the army. Remembering the tradition of the army, which, from the close of the War of 1812 had sent to Jefferson Barracks the most promising young officers in the army, he organized at that post the Second Cavalry, later known as "Jeff Davis' pet."

The colonel of the regiment was Albert Sidney Johnston and its lieutenant-colonel was Robert E. Lee, destined for fame as two of Davis' greatest Civil War generals. At the same time, there was organized there the First regiment of cavalry with Edwin V. Sumner (later a Union general) as colonel and Joseph E. Johnston (of Bull Run fame) as lieutenant-colonel. In fact these two regiments gave to the Union and Confederate armies no less than 30 generals, among them such men as John Sedgwick, W. J. Hardee, W. H. Emory, George Stoneman, E. D. Baker, "Jeb" Stuart, George H. Thomas Wesley Merritt, Earl Van Dorn and Kirby Smith.

But these are not the only distinguished names on Jefferson Barracks' roll of honor. There, too, appear Henry Leavenworth, Henry Atkinson, Stephen W. Kearney, John C. Fremont, Braxton Bragg, James Longstreet, Ulysses S. Grant, William Tecumseh Sherman, Philip Sheridan, Winfield Scott Hancock and Nathan Boone, a son of the famous Kentucky pioneer.

Jefferson Barracks also saw organized the original "rough riders" long before the days of Theodore Roosevelt and San Juan hill. During President Van Buren's administration the Seminole Indians became troublesome and the President asked the governor of Missouri to raise two regiments of mounted Missourians, frontiersmen all, to serve against the Seminoles. From all parts of the state these horsemen poured in to St. Louis and under the leadership of General Gentry and Col. John W. Price they were organized at Jefferson Barracks and acquitted themselves brilliantly in Florida.

Jefferson Barracks was established in 1820, as Cantonment Adams (in honor of President John Quincy Adams), and during its existence of nearly a century has been an important military rendezvous in all of Uncle Sam's wars from the Mexican to the World war.

Light From Tree's Petals

Travelers tell of a peculiar tree that grows in certain sections of India that produces great quantities of flowers with long petals, a crop of petals falling from the tree each day. All are gathered by the women, placed in the sun to dry and then are used as candles and provide a pleasant light. The large trees are said to produce 300 pounds of flowers in a single season and the dried petals are the principal aid of the people for the lights they need in their homes.

STUMBLING YANKS ARE TO GET A NEW PILOT IN STALLINGS

LATTER KNOWN AS "MIRACLE MAN OF BOSTON BRAVES"

HUGGINS, WEARIED BY BICKERING, READY TO STEP OUT

New York, June 27.—George Stallings, owner and manager of the Rochester International league club, is slated to become pilot of the stumbling Yankees.

The report here is that Stallings will take hold of the downtrodden New Yorkers within a few days.

The break between Huggins and his host of temperamental stars has been brewing for a long time. Now it has reached the climax. Huggins, wearied by the continual bickering and the behavior of his team, is willing, anxious to step out.

Stallings is known as the "miracle man of the 1914 Boston Braves." He took a tall-end club last year, drove them through to the National league title and then triumphed over Connie Mack's great machine in four straight, the greatest upset in all baseball history.

Things have been very blue at the Yankee stadium. The New York sport pages have been filled with jokes at the expense of the Yankees.

"The only strong thing about the Yankees," said one, "is their breath."

"Can the Yankees bring in the Jersey City team," said another.

The scandal peddlers have long insisted that certain players have been laying down on Miller. He has had trouble with several players. One of the worst, so it is said is Pitcher Hoyt, who has had a number of run-ins with Huggins.

Col. Ruppert has lost faith in Huggins' ability to deal with the present crew. Miller started a sort of housecleaning. He benched Scott, not for any trouble, but because the dean's legs were playing out on him. He also benched Pipp and Ward, sending in Buster Gehrig, Columbia college player, and Howard Shanks. He also used young Bengough in place of the very much slowed up O'Neill and Schang.

One of the big flareups came Memorial day when the club was in Philadelphia and several stars, highly inflated, rolled into the hotel at 2 a. m. That exhausted the mite pilot's patience.

It is common gossip that certain players have been violating training rules all season. Several slipping veterans have joined the hammer crowd apparently in an effort to drive Huggins out.

Huggins may quit and devote himself to his real estate holdings in Florida.

YANKEE PLAYERS ADMIT THE RUMOR

Boston, June 27.—George Stallings, "miracle man" of the 1914 Boston Braves, and now the owner and manager of the Rochester International league club, will succeed Miller Huggins as manager of the New York Yankees in a few days, it was reported among the New York players here today.

Miller Huggins would not comment on the report.

Huggins, it was said, would become interested with Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, in a minor league ball club, if he leaves the Yankees.

FILIPINOS ENJOY SAME LIBERTY AS YANKS, CLUB IS TOLD

St. Paul, June 27.—Filipinos enjoy as much liberty as anyone in the United States, Vincent Villamin, Filipino lawyer, writer and economist, told members of the Civitan club.

Mr. Villamin, who is in St. Paul as a member of the New York Kiwanis delegation, was the principal speaker at the Civitan luncheon.

"The so-called Philippine problem," he said, "does not involve the denial of liberty to Filipinos. They enjoy as much liberty as any American citizen."

"It does involve, however, the question of whether the islanders are able to assume the grave responsibility of separation from America. The two major problems of an independent Philippines—security and commerce—are strictly international in character and beyond our control."

LIBEL LAWS SCORED BY A FORMER SENATOR

Chicago, June 26.—America has now come to the point when public utterance as to the rights of people and the wrongs of government should be encouraged from every place, former Senator J. Hamilton Lewis said in an address before the University Public Speakers' council here.

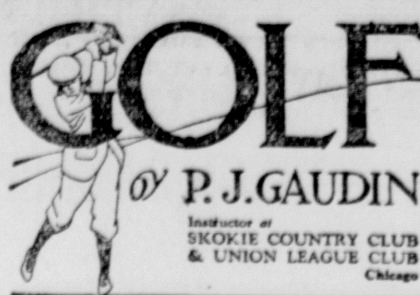

"The law of libel and slander which punishes the newspaper or the press for speaking the truth as to the wrongs to people and the corruptions of government should be promptly abolished," he declared.

"The age when such laws prevailed were the days when men held office and station by heredity assumed the privilege of an exemption from responsibility which applied to ordinary mankind. This day has ended."

By public exposure of wrong actions, we will right the wrongs of society, we will stop the crimes on the streets, we will end the pollution of public office, and dethrone incompetent and corrupt men."

He advocated throwing open churches, courtrooms and public buildings for public meetings where people might discuss their affairs.

READ THE WANT ADS DAILY

15—Value of Preliminary Knowledge.

It is a real pity that the beginner at golf cannot first go through a course of instruction that will show him the value of a correct swing before he ever hits a ball. It would make him a better-than-average player before ever he has played a game. It would cut off years, perhaps a lifetime of futile efforts to master something of which he knows nothing; not even the knowledge that he cannot teach himself but must go to another for instruction.

It is the sheerest folly to copy any golfing form until it is learned that the club must be at right angles to the line of flight while it is in contact with the ball; that at no time until the player is ready for some of the strokes of advanced golf can the club go over the line either on the backward or forward swing; that rhythm of the swing must culminate in perfect timing when the club meets the ball; that the body must keep a perfect balance all through the swing; that no successful stroke can be made by babying the ball and that more than 50 per cent of a good game is played by that part of the anatomy located above the eyes.

The most important thing to know is that the length and accuracy of the shot depends on the facing and speed of the club head for a foot or more back of and through the ball. Take any straight line anywhere there is room enough to swing a club. Imagine this line is the line of flight pointing toward the hole. Make a mark on the line at a point where there is at least a foot or more back of and in front of the mark. Sole the club on this mark, with the face at exactly right angles to the line of flight. All that is easy. Especially it is easy to understand that a board at right angles to the line, brought straight forward on the line and hitting the ball will force the ball straight along the line. That is exactly what it is necessary to do with the face of the club. Swing the club, slowly at first, and try to keep the face at right angles for a foot or more of space in the middle of which the ball is supposed to be. And absolutely anchor the knowledge that the swing is incorrect if the club head goes over the line at any point. That is a simple lesson that the majority of golfers do not know.

JACK KEARNS MAY SEEK REMEDY IN THE COURTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 27.—Jack Kearns will go to court if the New York boxing commission persists in its refusal to grant him a renewal of his second's license.

Kearns wants to be back of his new protegee, Mickey Walker, when the welterweight champion meets Harry Greb for the middleweight title and he has been trying to put some pressure on the commission with very little success.

The commission told Kearns when he asked how he could go about getting a license that he could not do anything until he brought Jack Dempsey into the office and had him express himself on the challenge of Harry Wills. Dempsey is in Europe and will not be back in time for the Greb-Walker fight and as the commission has no particular affection for Kearns or Dempsey it looks like Kearns is in a hole. Dempsey, the evidence shows, got Kearns into his latest jam, by passing the buck to his manager. Friends of Kearns have suggested he go before the commission and sign Dempsey to fight Wills as he did several years ago. This would get Kearns out from under the buck and would place the responsibility on Dempsey. Kearns plans to appear before the commission at its meeting today.

The Walker-Shade match, which has caused so much trouble for Walker, is up in the air again. It had been believed for some time that Shade cannot make the weight and that he does not want to fight Walker any place.

Reserves of Coal

In estimating coal in reserve it is usual to figure that in a vein of coal one foot thick there would be 1,800 tons under an acre. In a vein three feet thick it would amount to 5,400 tons. About one-third is estimated as wasteage, therefore, mined, it would amount to 3,600 tons. The amount might be some less or possibly more.

Might Be Possible

"The kinds of buttons and the way of using them are varied," read Mrs. Grouch, who was giving the fashion page the once over. "I suppose," growled her husband, "they might even be used to hold my underwear on if I ever could get them sewed on."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Now the Blue Carnation

The ambition of English florists is to grow a blue carnation. The incontestable fact that in nature no such thing as a blue carnation or a blue tulip occurs is no argument against the florists' endeavor to produce one of these unnatural flowers. If our gardens were only allowed to show such blooms as may be found in a state of nature they would be miserably poorer. A wild rose is a charming flower, but what reason is there in an asceticism which would deny us the color and form of Madame Chatenay or the fragrance of General McArthur because these roses are unnatural, the product of the florists' science?—London Telegraph.

Interesting Reading

An old man, a real patriarch of the hills, wandered into the public library of a southern Indiana town, recently, and stood for a few minutes looking around. Finally approaching the librarian he said, rather defensively, "I reckon ye don't object to my readin' in that book there, do ye?" pointing with his cane in the direction of the dictionary.

Being assured that he was free to use the book, he seated himself comfortably, and seemingly, with much interest, perused the pages of the book for some time.—Indianapolis News.

ALL MAJOR CLUBS AFTER CARROLL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, June 27.—Some of Ty Cobb's pitching worries will be relieved if Owen Carroll, the former Holy Cross star, lives up to expectations. Carroll is the most promising graduate from the collegiate ranks since George Sisler left the University of Michigan and he is perhaps the greatest pitcher ever developed on a college diamond.

In the past two years a number of veteran scouts, who draw pay for the judgment on young ball players, were asked who was the greatest prospect they had seen and the answer without hesitation—"Carroll of Holy Cross." Every major league team was after Carroll, but Cobb sneaked one over on them when he secured the pledge of the youngster two years ago. Carroll turned down all the early offers saying that he intended to study for the priesthood, but he promised to join the Detroit club if he decided to take up the professional game. This promise was taken as binding by Commissioner Landis when Carroll tried to obtain a release from his pledge so that he could join the New York Giants.

Connie Mack was supposed to have first call on all the Holy Cross players through his friendship with Jack Barry, the Holy Cross coach and a former star of the Philadelphia Athletics.

In four years of college pitching Carroll was only beaten twice. He has everything that a good pitcher needs, he can field and he is a fine hitter. It is possible that he might turn into another versatile player like Sisler, who was a pitcher when he was at Michigan. Carroll ought to have less difficulty in making the grade without minor league experience than the average college player because the Holy Cross team is better than the average minor league clubs. LIBEL LAWS
SCORED BY A FORMER SENATOR

Chicago, June 26.—America has now come to the point when public utterance as to the rights of people and the wrongs of government should be encouraged from every place, former Senator J. Hamilton Lewis said in an address before the University Public Speakers' council here.

"The law of libel and slander which punishes the newspaper or the press for speaking the truth as to the wrongs to people and the corruptions of government should be promptly abolished," he declared. "The age when such laws prevailed were the days when men who held office and station by heredity assumed the privilege of an exemption for responsibility which applied to ordinary mankind. This day has ended. By public exposure of wrong actions, we will right the wrongs of society, we will stop the crimes on the streets, we will end the pollution of public office, and dethrone incompetent and corrupt men."

He advocated throwing open churches, courtrooms and public buildings for public meetings where people might discuss their affairs.

Light From Tree's Petals
Travelers tell of a peculiar tree that grows in certain sections of India that produces great quantities of flowers with long petals, a crop of petals falling from the tree each day. All are gathered by the women, placed in the sun to dry and then are used as candles and provide a pleasant light. The large trees are said to produce 300 pounds of flowers in a single season and the dried petals are the principal aid of the people for the lights they need in their homes.

Success comes through determination, planning, strategy and sacrifice. The wage earners have no royal road to success. They must build their causeway, and it must be constructed with the bricks of experience and the mortar of patience. There may be other pathways seemingly strewn with roses, but that only conceal the thorns and pitfalls.—James M. Lynch in the Typographical Journal.

15—Value of Preliminary Knowledge.

It is a real pity that the beginner at golf cannot first go through a course of instruction that will show him the value of a correct swing before he ever hits a ball. It would make him a better-than-average player before ever he has played a game. It would cut off years, perhaps a lifetime of futile efforts to master something of which he knows nothing; not even the knowledge that he cannot teach himself but must go to another for instruction.

It is the sheerest folly to copy any golfing form until it is learned that the club must be at right angles to the line of flight while it is in contact with the ball; that at no time until the player is ready for some of the strokes of advanced golf can the club go over the line either on the backward or forward swing; that rhythm of the swing must culminate in perfect timing when the club meets the ball; that the body must keep a perfect balance all through the swing; that no successful stroke can be made by babying the ball and that more than 50 per cent of a good game is played by that part of the anatomy located above the eyes.

The most important thing to know is that the length and accuracy of the shot depends on the facing and speed of the club head for a foot or more back of and through the ball. Take any straight line anywhere there is room enough to swing a club. Imagine this line is the line of flight pointing toward the hole. Make a mark on the line at a point where there is at least a foot or more back of and in front of the mark. Sole the club on this mark, with the face at exactly right angles to the line of flight. All that is easy. Especially it is easy to understand that a board at right angles to the line, brought straight forward on the line and hitting the ball will force the ball straight along the line. That is exactly what it is necessary to do with the face of the club. Swing the club, slowly at first, and try to keep the face at right angles for a foot or more of space in the middle of which the ball is supposed to be. And absolutely anchor the knowledge that the swing is incorrect if the club head goes over the line at any point. That is a simple lesson that the majority of golfers do not know.

JACK KEARNS
MAY SEEK REMEDY
IN THE COURTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 27.—Jack Kearns will go to court if the New York boxing commission persists in its refusal to grant him a renewal of his second's license.

Kearns wants to be back of his new protegee, Mickey Walker, when the welterweight champion meets Harry Greb for the middleweight title and he has been trying to put some pressure on the commission with very little success.

The commission told Kearns when he asked how he could go about getting a license that he could not do anything until he brought Jack Dempsey into the office and had him express himself on the challenge of Harry Wills. Dempsey is in Europe and will not be back in time for the Greb-Walker fight and as the commission has no particular affection for Kearns or Dempsey it looks like Kearns is in a hole. Dempsey, the evidence shows, got Kearns into his latest jam, by passing the buck to his manager. Friends of Kearns have suggested he go before the commission and sign Dempsey to fight Wills as he did several years ago. This would get Kearns out from under the buck and would place the responsibility on Dempsey. Kearns plans to appear before the commission at its meeting today.

The Walker-Shade match, which has caused so much trouble for Walker, is up in the air again. It had been believed for some time that Shade can not make the weight and that he does not want to fight Walker any place.

Reserves of Coal

In estimating coal in reserve it is usual to figure that in a vein of coal one foot thick there would be 1,800 tons under an acre. In a vein three feet thick it would amount to 5,400 tons. About one-third is estimated as wasteage, therefore, mined, it would amount to 3,600 tons. The amount might be some less or possibly more.

Might Be Possible

"The kinds of buttons and the way of using them are varied," read Mrs. Grouch, who was giving the fashion page the once over. "I suppose," growled her husband, "they might even be used to hold my underwear on if I ever could get them sewed on."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Now the Blue Carnation

The ambition of English florists is to grow a blue carnation. The incontestable fact that in nature no such thing as a blue carnation or a blue rose or a yellow sweet pea or a black tulip occurs is no argument against the florists' endeavor to produce one of these unnatural flowers. If our gardens were only allowed to show such blooms as may be found in a state of nature they would be miserably poorer. A wild rose is a charming flower, but what reason is there in an asceticism which would deny us the color and form of Madame Chateau or the fragrance of General McArthur because these roses are unnatural, the product of the florists' science?—London Telegraph.

Interesting Reading

An old man, a real patriarch of the hills, wandered into the public library of a southern Indiana town, recently, and stood for a few minutes looking around. Finally approaching the librarian he said, rather defensively, "I reckon ye don't object to my readin' in that book there, do ye?" pointing with his cane in the direction of the dictionary. Being assured that he was free to use the book, he seated himself comfortably, and seemingly, with much interest, perused the pages of the book for some time.—Indianapolis News.

Odd Lightning Facts

Photography reveals many things about lightning. One is that a great many flashes are multiple, consisting of several discharges in rapid succession along the same path, says Nature Magazine. These flashes are studied by means of a camera mounted on a vertical axis and turned from side to side by clockwork. The pictures are taken at night, the shutter being left open until a flash occurs.
